Offering a helping hand

The Williamstown Community and Education Centre (WCEC) has been given a helping hand to continue its work supporting the disadvantaged in Hobsons Bay.

The WCEC received a donation of toiletries and essential items to be distributed to those in need throughout the Hobsons Bay community.

The donation came courtesy of the Healthcare Foundation, another local organisation which helps the less fortunate in the inner-west.

The Healthcare Foundation was established five years ago by podiatrist Dr Gerard Zammit who operates a chain of foot care clinics across the western suburbs, including in Altona and Altona North.

Dr Zammit's foundation has regularly donated food to the WCEC which it then distributes via its Food Relief and Pantry Swap initiatives, but the donation on Monday, January 20, was the first to contain toiletries and sanitary products.

WCEC chief executive Dr Mark Brophy said he was extremely appreciative of the Healthcare Foundation's generosity.

"These donations help our local disadvantaged tremendously, in not only helping them financially, but bringing dignity into their lives," said Dr Brophy, who pointed out that Hobsons Bay was home to much more disadvantage than many people realised.

"Many locals are unaware of the significant amounts of people doing it tough in local public housing including the high rise Floyd Lodge and Nelson Heights."

The toiletries and sanitary products will be distributed from the WCEC's base at Joan Kirner House where its sponsored programs, training courses, morning teas and other events and initiatives take place.

From Classroom to Kitchen

Julia was a popular student at Joan Kirner House at Williamstown Community and Education Centre, where she was enrolled in ACFE English classes between 2014 and 2018.

To improve her English, Julia attended as many available classes as possible. Initially, she started in lower-level beginner classes, but through her commitment and dedication, she progressed to more advanced levels.

Julia credits her teachers—Lynne, Jodie, and Fedra—as an essential part of her learning journey. She describes them as approachable and patient. When she first started classes, her English was limited, and she was very quiet and shy. However, as she made new friends, gained confidence, and became more involved in her community, she embraced new challenges.

In 2018, she purchased a restaurant in Patterson Lakes where she had been working. Unfortunately, in 2019, the restaurant burned down. With no close family and little support in Australia, this was a devastating experience for her.

In her typical determined manner, Julia did not let this setback deter her. In late 2024, she opened her own Vietnamese restaurant in Williamstown. Miss La's Kitchen, located in the popular Nelson Place, is open six days a week and has become a favourite among her former classmates and teachers, many of whom are regular customers.

Julia plans to return to the Williamstown Community and Education Centre to continue learning and has also encouraged her staff to attend English classes there.

Artful Mind testimonial.

My name is Judy Wolff, I have been attending Monday Art Group when I can, and I'm amazed at how I am able to paint and draw when there!

I think it is the company and peaceful background music which enables me to find myself through art practice in Janine's Art Group.

In the recent past, I was a volunteer in Lynne's EAL class.

I enjoyed being there and helping in any way I could with English and generally conversing with students and being another English speaker in the group.

Cuppa time was great also!

Thank you Lynne and students for the privilege and opportunity to participate for a while.

Spotswood Community House comeback

The Williamstown Community and Education Centre (WCEC) is renowned for the help it provides to people in Hobsons Bay and now that help is extending to other community centres too.

After receiving a grant from the Melbourne Airport Authority, the WCEC has set about rejuvenating the Spotswood Community House on Melbourne Road which has endured a tough few years.

WCEC's education co-ordinator Lynn Hewet is leading the rejuvenation efforts and explained why the Spotswood Community House needed their help.

"It's (the community house) between Spotswood Primary School and the new Union Quarter development and while that building was happening, there was a lot of upheaval, there was dirt, there was dust, there was traffic and it just meant a lot of the programs running at Spotswood had to be relocated," said Ms Hewet.

"And it was on the back of Covid so it meant numbers dropped dramatically."

Many of the programs that relocated from Spotswood went to WCEC and are now being sent back, including English language classes, boat license classes, art groups for people with disabilities and a playgroup that supports parents of children with disabilities.

Having started the rejuvenation efforts in October last year, Ms Hewet said good progress had been made, but they still had a way to go to get numbers attending the Spotswood Community House back to where they used to be.

"At its peak we were probably having 80 to 100 through a week and at the moment we 30 to 40 so we've still got a way to go." Details: <https://www.williamstown-spotswoodcc.org.au/>

Here is one story -

Julia Marallano came from Peru to Australia ten months ago.

Two of her four children live in Australia. At 83 years of age this is a major lifestyle change for Julia.

Most of Julia's life in Peru was spent living on the land, growing crops and then selling her produce at local markets.

It was no surprise therefore that when we started the gardening sessions at Spotswood Julia was in her element.

Julia is currently living with her daughter Ana in Newport. Family is very important to her, and she loves spending time with her four granddaughters.

Also, she has encouraged her younger sister Alejandrina (aged 79) to attend English classes with her.

Although their English is limited, both sisters are grateful for the opportunity to learn more about life in Australia and make new friends while improving their English skills at our Centre.

Checkout the food bins

Grocery shoppers in Hobsons Bay will now notice something different when they approach the supermarket checkout.

Food collection bins have been placed at Coles in Williamstown and Woolworths outlets in Altona North and Spotswood as part of Williamstown Community and Education Centre's (WCEC) food relief program.

Whether doing their weekly supermarket shop or just picking up a few items after work, shoppers can now help those in need too by donating nonperishable food items into the collection bins located next to the checkout area.

The donated items are then packaged in mixed nonperishable food bags and distributed to disadvantaged members of the community by volunteers.

Food relief can also be accessed at the WCEC's headquarters at John Kirner House in Williamstown from 10am to 1pm on Mondays and Fridays (ask for Tahlia) and at Altona North Community House on Thursdays from 9am to 12.30pm (ask for Lara).

For perishable items, a fruit and vegetable swap is held in the foyer of Joan Kirner House, while fresh bakery items are available there each morning.

"The generosity of locals is outstanding" said WCEC chief executive Dr Mark Brophy of the reason why the organisation had been able to grow and refine its food relief program over the past few years.

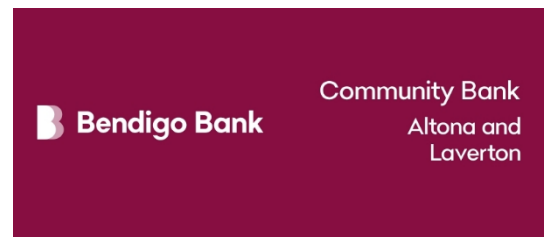

"Every donation makes a substantial difference to locals in need."

Dr Brophy also acknowledged local businesses, organisations and not-for-profits who had donated to the program such as the Country Women's Association, Healthcare Foundation, The Village Williamstown, Share the Dignity, Mobil, and EMILY's List.

Supporting multiculturalism and inclusion in Melbourne's west

Williamstown
Community and Education
Centre Inc

Williamstown Community and Education Centre has established the Spotswood Rejuvenation project to help culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities across Melbourne's west build social connections through a range of informal activities that prioritise inclusivity. In FY25, Melbourne Airport contributed $10,000 to support the Spotswood Rejuvenation project.

The Spotswood Community House rejuvenation project

The project is designed to promote and grow the area's multiculturalism and diversity by engaging current and future learners at Spotswood Community House in a variety of accessible, informal activities. Spaces are created where people can engage with others to improve social isolation and support informal sharing of cultural practices and history.

Recreational activities facilitated under the program include gardening sessions and walking groups, as well as educational experiences such as cooking classes and arts and crafts workshops.

The program aims to be a hub for cross-cultural exchange across Melbourne's west, providing the community with a safe, inclusive space to not only build stronger connections with their community, but share their own culture. This not only benefits the individuals participating in the program through the development of greater social capital but helps the community establish and build stronger social cohesion and culturally inclusive ways of living.

Social value supported by the Airport's contributions

The $10,000 contribution by the Airport to the Spotswood Rejuvenation program is estimated to have helped create more than $33,000 in social value through the promotion of connection and inclusivity in Melbourne's CALD communities.

"This generous contribution by Melbourne Airport has built the capability and capacity of our Community House. Isolated and disengaged locals are able to meet together, build skills, develop new relationships and engage with their community."

WORKING TOGETHER TO HELP CREATE A SAFE AND CONNECTED COMMUNITY

We're working in partnership with Victoria Police on the Hobsons Bay Local Safety Committee.

Co-chaired by Local Area Commander Inspector Damien Madden and Hobsons Bay Mayor Daria Kellander, the Local Safety Committee brings together local voices, with a committee made up of community and business representatives as well as state government and regional services.

The Local Safety Committee is a platform to identify community safety priorities, and to be able to consider emerging issues and trends, with a focus on prevention.

Committee members include representatives from Victoria Police, Council, Latitude Directions for Young People, Laverton Community Integrated Services, Hobsons Bay trader associations, IPC Health, CoHealth, Department of Families, Fairness and Housing, among others.

At both Altona North Community House and Spotswood Community House classes had a free StrokeSafe Talk provided by The Stroke Foundation.

Our teacher Fedra, at Altona North wrote –

Hi Mark and Lynne,

As you know, we had Bob Carey-Grieve from the Stroke Foundation as a guest speaker this morning.

He delivered such an informative and engaging session.

We all really appreciated the insights he shared and found his talk both inspiring and practical.

A Christmas message from one of our students.

Dear teachers, classmates, and the entire Williamstown Community and Education Centre team, this Christmas, I want to send you a message filled with love, gratitude, and light.

This year has been one of the most difficult of my life because of the loss of my brothers and the emotional process I went through in Colombia.

But when I returned to class, I found more than an English course — I found a place where hearts are supported, and spirits are lifted.

Thank you for the emotional support, the patience, and the understanding you have given me every step of the way.

To Mark, our CEO, thank you for leading with kindness and for creating a space where every migrant feels welcome and valued.

To the ladies in the administration office Tahlia, Lara and Lucila, thank you for your smiles, patience, and the warm help you give us every day.

To my teachers Lynne, Fedra, Lucy, and Jim, thank you for your dedication, your encouragement, and for believing in me.

Your kindness, guidance, and patience have given me strength during moments when I needed it the most. You have been a true blessing.

Ruth and Lynne

And to my classmates, who come from so many different countries, cultures, and stories: thank you for walking this journey with me. Even though we speak different languages and come from different worlds, we share something beautiful: the desire to learn, the patience to listen, and the respect to grow together.

You have also been an important part of my healing and my progress.

During this special season, I want to wish each of you a Merry Christmas filled with peace, unity, and hope.

May the New Year bring health, opportunities, joy, and blessings to you and your families.

Thank you for making this place a true refuge for everyone who arrive searching for a new beginning.

With all my love and gratitude,

Ruth.
